

GUEST LECTURE

Alexandra Troi

What does it take to generate and manage large scale European projects?

Date: October 25th

Time: 16:00 – 17:00

The seminar will be on-line: Join Zoom Meeting

For Gotland in general and Campus Gotland in particular, there is an untapped potential to take part in European projects in wide range of areas. Often the possibility to take part in, or even coordinate, European projects is dismissed beforehand based on preconceived notions of various difficulties.

Eurac Research is a regional research institute located in South Tyrol, Italy. Within Eurac, the Institute for renewable energy has grown to more than 100 employees in 15 years. One of the success factors for the Institute has been the ability to generate and manage European projects. In this seminar Alexandra Troi, vice head of the Institute, will talk about the capacities needed to generate and manage large scale European projects.

Questions? tor.brostrom@konstvet.uu.se